Hospital trust loses £26million arbitration case

TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT

by Lewis Berrill

havering@yellowad.co.uk

A HOSPITAL trust has lost a £26million arbitration fight with its commissioners.

Barking, Havering and Redbridge University Hospitals NHS Trust disputed work and payment levels with its Clinical Commissioning Groups (CCGs).

This is not the first time the trust has taken disputes with its commissioners to arbitration. They did so last year and the year before.

CCGs commission hospital trusts such as BHRUT to carry out work and then pay them for it.

Discrepancies between what the north east London CCGs think they need to pay the trust for their work and what the trust thinks it is owed caused the dispute.

In total, the trust lost £26m in the case, but due to the length of the arbitration process, the impact of that total will be spread across the budgets of two financial years.

A total of £13m will be factored out of the trust's 2016-2017 budget and £13m out of the 2017-2018 budget.

The impact that this financial loss will have on the trust's services is not yet clear and discussions with the Department of Health and NHS area managers are due to take place in the coming months to decide where cutbacks will have to occur.

Pressures of funding across the NHS nationally mean that BHRUT

is not the only trust to have taken its commissioners to court over such disputes.

Brighton and Sussex University Hospitals NHS Trust took NHS England to arbitration in November last year and won.

BHRUT is currently in financial special measures and was rated "inadequate" for its use of resources in the CQC's latest inspection of the trust earlier this year.

According to the Health Service Journal, at the end of the 2017-2018 financial year, the trust was running an overall deficit of £48.9m.

The trust has a £500m turnover per year and most of its income comes from its commissioners; the area's CCGs, which paid the trust £391m in 2016-17.

In April this year, BHRUT's chief executive Matthew Hopkins and chairman Joe Fielding issued a joint public statement, apologising for the financial situation the trust was in.

In the last few weeks the trust has signed a financial recovery plan and is working closely with PwC consultants to improve its financial position and processes.

Campaigner Andy Walker is fighting for more critical care beds at both King George and Queen's hospitals.

He said: "North London residents seem to be getting an unfair deal – £26m, that could buy more critical care beds.

"You can see the trust is really feeling the pressure. The loss is a kick in the teeth, adding to the financial pressures."

In a joint statement, BHRUT and the area's CCGs said: "We are pleased that the [arbitration] process has now concluded. We found it to be a constructive and helpful experience. The CCGs and trust will work together to translate the findings into an agreed contractual position for 2017/18, this financial year and beyond.

"We are committed to working collaboratively to progress our integrated care system with local partners, to ensure that we deliver a sustainable future for BHRUT and the very best quality care for local people."

A spokesman for BHRUT said: "We have made significant changes and improvements to how we manage our finances in recent months. We recently finalised a comprehensive financial improvement plan, signed off by our board, which sets out how we will go about tackling the financial challenges we have been facing.

"We are committed to providing the very best care we can to our community in a sustainable way, and this will continue to be our top priority."

Work to begin on major roundabout

by Alice Richardson

BBC local democracy reporter

FOUR months of roadworks at a major roundabout are due to start on Monday morning.

Redbridge Council has lobbied for safety improvements on the Charlie Brown roundabout in South Woodford for a number of years and finally Transport for London has given the changes the go-ahead.

Work will include the installation of signal-controlled pedestrian and cycle crossings and the widening of footpaths.

The roundabout is TfL's responsibility, and has not been updated since it was enlarged on the site of the Charlie Brown pub in 1972.

Cabinet member for civic pride Cllr John Howard said: "It's great news that this much-needed safety improvement scheme is going ahead. For too long this junction has been a hostile environment for residents and the changes will be a real boost for all those who use it."

"Unfortunately, to get the long-term benefits we will have to endure the short-term disruption, so we ask residents to be patient and to take extra care while TfL complete their works."

Council leader Cllr Jas Athwal added: "We have campaigned tirelessly over many years for safety measures at this very busy junction so I'm pleased that TfL are now implementing the urgently required scheme."

ROADWORKS: The Charlie Brown roundabout where repairs are due to start

"This is another example of the council listening to the needs of residents and fighting their corner to get a result that has real benefits for the community."

Penny Rees, TfL's head of network sponsorship, said: "The transformation of Charlie Brown's Roundabout will make it safer for pedestrians and cyclists in line with the Mayor's Vision Healthy Streets Approach."

"Our plans to install signalised pedestrian and cycle crossings on all arms of the roundabout and widen the pavements, will reduce road danger and contribute to the Mayor's Vision Zero target: nobody killed or seriously injured on London's roads by 2041."

"We are working to minimise the impact of this work, and advise residents to check their journeys before they travel."

Most of work will take place overnight from 9pm to 5am, Monday to Friday, between July 9 until October 31, with some phases during the summer holidays undertaken between 10am and 4pm.

The works will entail diversions and lane closures affecting the A406 and A1400. Bus routes will also be affected and some pedestrian crossings temporarily closed.

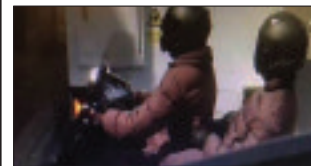

Work on footpaths is due to start on July 23, but changes to routes will be shown on temporary electronic message boards in the area.

Public consultation on the changes was carried out earlier in the year.

Residents can find out more about the scheme by visiting www.consultations.tfl.gov.uk/roads/Charlie-Brown-roundabout.

Bid to trace cashbox duo

HUNT: The men police want to find

POLICE are appealing for help in identifying suspects following a moped robbery of a cashbox during a collection.

The robbery occurred at about 12pm on Thursday, May 3, when a cash delivery and collection was taking place at Sainsbury's on Hall Lane in Chingford.

Two men, riding a blue and silver scooter with a stolen number plate, rode up to the cashbox custodian who was entering the store.

The pillion passenger got off the scooter, ran to the guard and grabbed the cashbox.

He then got back onto the rear of the scooter and the pair rode off in the direction of Haringey or Hackney.

Detective Constable Tom Boov said: "The two suspects were wearing distinctive clothing, including matching dark purple puffer-style jackets, dark purple trousers, black and purple trainers and black helmets."

"This brazen offence took place in broad daylight, and we are hoping that these images may jog the memory of someone who witnessed the robbery."

Anyone with information is asked to call officers via 101, quoting reference 2877/3May, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Police appeal to trace man in burglary probe

POLICE wish to speak to this man in connection with an aggravated burglary in Leyton.

A woman in her 30s was asleep in her bedroom on Friday, June 22, when a man broke into her property in High Road, Leyton, at 10.50pm.

She woke up when she heard glass shattering as the intruder got in through a window. The man, who was armed with an axe, demanded she hand over her mobile phone, bank cards and other valuables. He then left via the window he broke.

On June 25, the victim told police her contactless cards had been used in a local fast food restaurant, supermarket and to enter a Tube station.

CCTV footage from the supermarket and fast food restaurant show a man at the time the victim's cards were used.

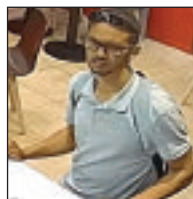

He is a slim, light-skinned black man of medium build. He was wearing a light coloured rucksack over a grey, plain polo shirt and grey jeans.

He has dark cropped hair and a short cropped goatee-style beard and had on thick dark rimmed glasses, with a pair of sunglasses on top of his head.

DC Mark Crouchman said: "We have an excellent CCTV still of the man we want to speak to in connection with this aggravated burglary."

Anyone with information can call 0203 276 0972 or 101, quoting 9523/22Jun, or contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

TEAM SUPPORT: Barking Rugby Club members and inpatient unit staff at Saint Francis Hospice in Havering-atte-Bower

Rugby club starts year of fundraising for hospice

BARKING Rugby Club has named Saint Francis Hospice as its charity of the year.

Club members visited the hospice on Wednesday, July 4, to celebrate the announcement.

The club plans to organise a variety of events to raise money and awareness for the hospice's specialist care and support services.

Club secretary Neil Kersey, whose wife Josie is a nurse on the inpatient unit, said: "We are happy to do anything we can for the hospice."

"There are so many people in the borough who have been helped by the hospice and they only have great things to say about the charity.

"My father-in-law was cared for by the hospice so my family has also experienced the great care and support it provides."

The club will hold two charity matches, which have yet to be announced, along with a variety of other events.

Michelle Gower, community fundraising manager at the hospice, said: "When people affected by life-limiting illness are referred to the hospice, they are not charged."

"But it costs £21,000 a day to provide our specialist care and support services and it is only thanks to the generosity and compassion of our incredible supporters that we are able to be there for patients and their families when they need us the most."

Barking Rugby Club is dedicated to helping the community. Seven years ago the club set up a coaching programme to help disadvantaged young people by educating them to get fitter and eat healthier through sport.

Coaches also give up their time to go into schools across Barking and support children who are struggling with literacy.
